Tiebreaker — combined final-score forecast _____

Correct: 1 point. Wrong, blank or void: 0. The 45.5 threshold is hypothetical, not a sportsbook line.

Before entries open, fill in teams, date and an absolute deadline with time zone. Close before the earliest included event, here the coin toss. A delayed broadcast gives no extra submission time; a game delay does not automatically extend the announced deadline. Timestamp submissions; no changes afterward.

Correct answers earn 1 point; wrong or blank answers earn 0. A common void earns 0 for everyone and reduces the maximum: one void changes 15 to 14.

Include overtime except for halftime and regulation-quarter questions. Use the first official coin toss.

Regular touchdown: 6 points; field goal: 3; safety: 2. A try scores 1 or 2 separately. Total touchdowns include all regular 6-point touchdowns by offense, defense and special teams. Successful try plays, including returns, are handled separately and excluded from this sheet’s touchdown counts.

A defensive touchdown here is an interception return or a fumble recovery or return, including a recovery in the opponent’s end zone with no runback; kickoff and punt returns are excluded. A quarterback is the position that typically directs the offense and throws passes; use agreed official position information.

Announce an exact correction cutoff and dispute procedure before entries open. Results may be provisional until that cutoff. Do not add rules after the event.

Break score ties by smallest absolute error in the total-points forecast. Remaining ties share the prizes for occupied places equally. Announce prize amounts and rounding before entry.

Free play is recommended; check paid eligibility before collecting fees. Void undeterminable outcomes for everyone. If cancellation prevents settling the contest, cancel it and refund all entry fees.
